

Article appeared on page 11

THE BOSTON GLOBE
13 April 1979

C. G. Turner, Jr., Adm.

Orig: Overseas Club

US / WORLD BRIEFS

Turner on SALT

WASHINGTON — CIA director Stansfield Turner indicated yesterday he has less confidence in the agency's ability to monitor Soviet compliance with a SALT treaty now that the United States has lost its intelligence bases in Iran. But, Turner said, the United States has at least four other means of gathering information on Soviet missile tests, and it is a political decision — outside his province — as to whether such verification would be adequate.